Directions: 1) Write "S" over each subject and "V" over each verb.
2) Circle the subordinating conjunction.
3) Underline the adverb clause twice.
4) If the adverb clause begins the sentence, add a comma after the last word in the clause.

Example: After Labor Day weekend is over, there are very few holidays.

1. I enjoy summer because I have so much time off.
2. As the days go by, I find myself becoming more and more tanned.
3. With not much to do, I usually sleep in later.
4. My friends run around as though they have urgent matters to attend to.
5. The pool is wonderful as long as the water is not too cold.
6. I liked the baby pool until I realized that it was suspiciously warm!
7. All of the children like to play when their friends are with them.
8. Whatever they do, they seem to have fun!
9. Since summer is short, I try to make the best of everything.
10. Even though I have fun, I do look forward to school.
